

Legal Drafting

Ms. A has been a client at Sanctuary for several years. Our Family Law Project has successfully represented her in matters including custody, order of protection, relocation, child support, child support violations, and child support modifications. Unfortunately, her abuser continues to file frivolous child support modifications and make frivolous objections as a way to continue harassing our client. One of his support modification petitions has already been dismissed as baseless. His filed objection to that is pending. He has now filed a motion with the original magistrate judge that decided the case in 2018 asking that the child support order be vacated because of the "court's failure" and other baseless claims. Sanctuary is seeking a pro bono team to draft a brief that (i) opposes his new motion seeking to vacate and (ii) asks the court to require that respondent seek permission from the court before filing any more petitions. We would need the brief no later than July 9.
